The Proposed Plan.

While some of the saloon keepers talk of keeping open on Monday, despite the action of the City Council, others intend, ostensibly at least, to close on Monday, but have hit on a plan which they think will answer the purpose fully as well. Over the mirror in one large saloon in the city, are the words in large black type, on white cloth: "This bar will be closed on Monday next, but will extend Christmas cheer on Tuesday." It is stated that others will follow suit, the meaning being that they will give away liquor on Tuesday, since they are prohibited from doing it on Monday. The liquor question is one which it will be difficult to settle satisfactorily, and it is not pothering this Territory, nor Salt Lake City alone, but it is worrying the whole United States.

JOSEPH E. JOHNSON.

Some Data in Relation to this Remarkable Man.

The other day we announced the unexpected death of Joseph E. Johnson, Esq., and while referring to the great worth and ability of the man, were unable at the time to give data concerning his life. The following, however, is an epitome of the events in this good man's life, and they will be read by hundreds in this Territory who knew and admired Joseph E. Johnson:

Was born in Pomfret, Chataqua Co., New York, on the 28th day of April, 1817. Moved to Kirtland in 1832. Baptized as a Latter-Day Saint in 1833. Taught school in Springfield, Ill. in 1839. Went to Nauvoo in 1840. Married to Harriet Snyder, by Joseph Smith in 1841. Accompanied Joseph and Hyrum Smith on their way to Carthage Jail. Was taken prisoner when mob entered Nauvoo. Went to "Miller's Hollow" (now Council Bluffs) in 1845. Built the first house in Pottawattamie County. Was postmaster at Council Bluffs for five years, and obtained a change of name from "Daneville" to Council Bluffs. Was a member of first City Council for several years. Established the Council Bluffs Bugle in 1852. Office and store destroyed by fire in 1853. Restored and published until 1858. The Bugle had much to do in getting the Capital of Nebraska located at Omaha. Was elected to the Nebraska Legislature, but was too much of a Democrat to get a seat. Opened the first store on the site of Omaha, and sent the first train of goods to the Denver Colorado, (Cherry Creek) mines. In 1854 published the Omaha Arrow, the first paper published on Nebraska soil, and the same year accompanied the first party of explorers for a railroad crossing on the Missouri River and Loupe Fork of Platte River. Wrote the first article published favoring the North Platte route for the Pacific Railroad, and contended for same until so located, (vide files of Bugle.) Crossed the Plains to Utah and back in 1856. In 1857 started the Crescent City Oracle and laid out the town of that name. In 1858 published the Council Bluffs Press. In 1859-'60-'61 published the Huntsman's Echo at Wood River, Neb. In 1861 removed to Utah. In '63 published the Farmer's Oracle at Spring Lake Villa, Utah County. In 1865 removed to Saint George, and began a supply garden and nursery. In 1868-'69 published Our Diavole Times, afterwards the Rio Virgin Times. In 1870 published the Utah Pomologist and Gardener, monthly, for several years. In 1876 went to Silver Reef and put up store and printing office, but sold part of office before paper was fairly started. In 1879 was burned out, with many others. Restored store immediately, on larger scale. In 1880 began to look southward for new homes, and to-morrow, June 24th, 1882, with the blessings of Providence, I shall start in company with my brother B. F., for the land of Old Mexico, to open up, ere I pass from this life, a place of refuge for the Saints of God.

Have three wives, and am the father of 26 children, 17 of whom are now living, and have 27 grandchildren 19 now living.

He makes a specialty of the family trade, and it is a specialty which is proving profitable to him as well as satisfactory to his customers.

PROVO POINTS.

Provo, Dec. 20th, 1882.

Editors Herald:

Rheumatic people predict a change in the weather and who says they haven't a right to?

Wood haulers have improved the time during the recent fine weather and secured a large amount of firewood.

Country roads are in better condition than the streets here in the city. Loose cobble stones are becoming scarce in the country.

Merchants have been doing lively business, and they are now making fine displays of Christmas goods.

One would think from the large number of confectionary stores in Provo, that there was a great demand for candy.

The many friends of George Mel-drum, Esq., will be pleased to learn that he is able to be around again. Residents of the Fourth Ward are making preparations for a Christmas tree and party in their new meeting house.

Several couples of young people seem deliberately and premeditatedly determined to commit matrimony.

A large amount of rock for the foundation of our new tabernacle is on the ground, and the excavation partially finished.

Our little Enquirer will soon issue from a new office. The building is of pressed bricks, two stories high, situated on the west side of the block north of the Provo meeting house, a little off from Centre Street, and with its numerous windows will make a fine appearance when lit up in the evening. It is hoped Brother Graham will not get proud and go to putting on airs.

The old talk of a new theatre is again revived. We may, some of us, live to see it accomplished, but life is too short to waste many more words on the subject.

Some people are beginning to find fault with one of our city ordinances, which requires liquor dealers to keep drug stores in connection with their business. It is thought by some that a competent druggist ought to be allowed to do business independent of the liquor trade.

There are rumors that gold has been found here in Slate Canyon, about three miles from town, and that Isaac Bullock, Esq., is one of the lucky parties; but the rumor needs confirmation.

Blatant politicians are not as numerous as they were before election; in fact we have not seen one for over six weeks.

DOUBLE YOU BE.

It is not necessary to pick our words in mentioning the Philadelphia Times, the prospectus of which journal appears in another column. The Times has got to be a sort of necessity with some people of this community and it ought to be with many more. It has many imitators all over the land, but there is really nothing like The Times from Maine to California. We have persuaded ourselves at times that the reason the people like it so much is that it is constantly giving its readers juicy bites from the sunny side of the journalistic peach.

Liquor Cases.

The principal item of interest in the police court at present is the hearing of liquor cases. The case against Jule Clasbey, bar-keeper for Barr & Edwards, consumed nearly all day Thursday with hearing, and was still unfinished when the court adjourned last evening, the hearing being continued until to-day at 11 o'clock, a. m. There are several other cases in addition to this one, but unless new questions are raised in those yet untold, it is probable the hearing in them will be merely formal, in order that the decision of a higher court might be made to apply to them, if an appeal is taken. Among sporting men the liquor conundrum is the great question at issue.

Wedding Reception.

Last evening Mayor Jennings' beautiful residence was illuminated from "basement to turret," in honor of the arrival home of Mr. Isaac Jennings, son of Mayor Jennings, and his charming bride. There was a very large assemblage of relatives and friends, and the hospitality and good cheer, which are characteristic of the receptions given at the Dev-eux House, were never more generous nor infectious than last night. A magnificent repast was spread and partaken of by the happy throng with a relish that made it no less a compliment to the generosity of the host, than to those under whose care it was arranged. Mrs. Isaac Jennings, as well as her happy husband, were the recipients of innumerable congratulatory and complimentary expressions, and the young bride carried herself with an ease and grace that delighted her new friends and admirers. The occasion was in every way suited to the event which was being celebrated; and the genial spirit manifested by all, was an undeniable evidence of the pleasure which the occasion had afforded all. It is to be hoped that the many happy and smiling faces present, may prove the forerunner of a walk through life under genial skies and surrounded by joyful and loving countenances. That Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jennings may live long and be blessed with that prosperity which makes cheerful hearts and happy homes, is the ardent wish of every one who greeted them last evening.

Barnes & Davis.

"His nature is such, that he doesn't say much, but he keeps up an enormous thinking." If this expression is true of any person, it is true of Captain D. L. Davis, of the firm of Barnes & Davis—who manages the business of that firm in this city. For years the business of that firm has been conducted at the same stand, and while changes have been making, people growing excited and doubtful regarding the future, and been worried in a hundred different ways, the pleasant countenance of Mr. Davis has remained unchanged. He has kept up his enormous thinking, has attended strictly to his business, and has made a pronounced success. On the dullest days, in the dullest seasons of the year, you will always find their store with customers, and the pleasant clerks satisfying the wants of old time and new customers alike. One would hardly credit the retail business which this firm does, in groceries, in dry goods, in clothing, boots and shoes, and in hardware. But in the wholesale business, even more than the retail, is the firm most influential. It is not putting it extravagantly to say that almost hundreds of retail houses struggling for success and recognition, owe their existence to the favors and support of Barnes & Davis; and thus making friends of all who deal with them, the firm does a steadily increasing wholesale business, which develops permanently with each new customer. One cannot always judge by appearances, but whether appearances indicate it or no, it is nevertheless a fact that Barnes & Davis is one of the most successful firms in the city.

Diavolini.

This evening Diavolini will give his initial illusion entertainment in the Theatre. The Fort Douglas orchestra and band have been secured for the occasion, and in the afternoon will play on the street. The performance is of the usual legitimate and sleight-of-hand character, though it is claimed it will have many new and interesting features. An item of even more interest than the performance—at least, to a great many—is the valuable and beautiful articles which are to be given away. Several of the more valuable of these articles have been on exhibition for the last ten days in prominent business houses in the city; where they were purchased—at Joslin & Park's, Golden Rule Bazar, Henry Dinwoodey's and other places. The prospects are that Diavolini will draw full houses on both nights.

"Made New Again."

Mrs. WM. D. RYCEMAN, St. Catharines, Ont., says: "R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. I have used your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets,' for the last three months and find myself—(what shall I say)—'made new again' are the only words that express it. I was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk across the floor without fainting, could keep nothing in the shape of food on my stomach. Myself and friends had given up all hope, my immediate death seemed certain. I now live (to the surprise of everybody) and am able to do my own work."

Large numbers of persons are buying "Dow's Treatise on Book-keeping" for Christmas presents. They can be had at his school room, City Hall, from 7 to 9.30 p.m. As he is now teaching his final term, a word to the wise is, don't wait too long.

Ogden Pilot: Madam Christine Nilsson and party passed through Ogden to-day, en route for Denver. They were greatly pleased with their reception in San Francisco. They will sing on Saturday evening in Denver. From there they go to Kansas City, then to Omaha and from there to St. Louis and New Orleans.

There is a growing sentiment among quite a number of reputable saloon men to observe the ordinance of the City Council, closing saloons on Christmas and New Year's days; they claiming that it will be no hardship to them, for the reason that the day is not only one of constant worry, but of great expense to them without any adequate returns.
